AMERICANS SMASH INTO BRITTANY

Russian Forces Trap Two German Armies in Baltic, Capture Kaunas

Cut Last Road and Rail Communications between North Baltic States, Prussia

By W. W. HERCHER

LONDON, Aug. 1 (AP)—The Russian First Baltic army slashed the last road and rail communications between the North Baltic states and East Prussia tonight, isolating two German armies in Estonia and Latvia, while two other powerful Soviet army groups captured Kaunas, pre-war capital of Lithuania, and closed a steel arc of siege around burning Warsaw.

The trap in the Baltic was being closed by Gen. Ivan C. Bagramian's men, who seized Tukums, rail center nine miles south of the Gulf of Riga and thirty miles almost due west of the city of Riga. Six other railway stations were among more than 100 taken in that drive, the Soviet midnight communiqué announced, describing the threat of German catastrophe in a single sentence:

"Thus our troops have cut all roads leading from the Baltic to East Prussia."

Escape Corridor Shrinks

How many Germans remain there is uncertain, but their numbers are believed to be large, as both the Sixteenth and Eighteenth armies, once totalling 350,000 men, were assigned to the Estonian-Latvian defense and gave no indications of pulling out even as the escape routes narrowed daily.

Monday a twenty-mile corridor remained. Now it was nine, and a token only, for it contained no roads or of retreat. The Germans' only communication with their fatherland, either for escape or supply, is by sea and air and the Russians already have declared their intention to keep these lines under fire.

A steady stream of civilian German fugitives was reported pouring into the hazardous refuge of Riga. The Germans claimed they had driven Bagramian's forces back in the Slavianski area so that twelve miles separated them from those thrusting to the Gulf of Riga, but if true, this was a minor success offering small promise of saving the German armies to the north.

Nazi General Captured

The Russian communiqué, broadcast from Moscow and recorded in London by the Soviet monitor, reiterated Premier Stalin's earlier order of the day announcing that Kaunas had been taken by storm by Gen. Ivan D. Cherniakhovsky's Third White Russian army, and told of continuing progress on all the northern sectors of the 800-mile front.

West of Siedlce, in the Warsaw direction, the Russians reported capture of another Nazi general, Lt. Gen. Franke, of the Route Seventy-third Infantry division, along with all his staff.

On the battle for Warsaw itself the communiqué was silent, as is the Soviet custom when great operations still are in a process of development.

Moscow dispatches, however, said the Germans evidently were putting Warsaw to the torch in preparation for a retreat as the Red Army pressed in on the northeast suburbs of the Polish capital behind a cascade of bombs and shells.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 1 (AP)—If Turkey joins the United Nations in the war against Germany, the United States will assume an obligation entailing almost the complete industrial rehabilitation of the Turkish nation. Dr. William Diamond, of Baltimore, declared today.

Dr. Diamond, former professor of history at the Johns Hopkins university, returned several weeks ago from a six-week survey of Turkey as a representative of the Foreign Economic Administration.

He explained in an interview with a Baltimore Evening Sun reporter that "Turkey formerly bought nearly all her industrial machinery, except that used in manufacturing textiles, from Central Europe."

"A diplomatic break with Germany would mean that new machinery and replacements could no longer be bought from Germany, and it is unlikely that we could supply replacements to the German-made machines. It is also unlikely that America could furnish Turkey with any manufacturing machinery, at least until our reconversion is effected."

"Thus we are assuming a very large obligation, and this in itself has made Turkey hesitant about entering the war."

Dewey Invades Cornbelt; Meets Governors Today

Nominee Pays Homage to Lincoln, Takes Swipes at Roosevelt

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 1 (AP)—Thomas E. Dewey brought his presidential campaign into the Cornbelt today to pay homage to the first Republican chief executive, Abraham Lincoln, to take swipes at Franklin D. Roosevelt and Gerald K. Smith, and to assert that "our strength depends upon the American people and upon no one man."

As a prelude to two days of conferences with the twenty-five other Republican governors starting tomorrow in St. Louis, Dewey held political parleys throughout a busy afternoon in Springfield. He has worked out a fifteen-point agenda for the governors' conference, whose discussions may have an important bearing on the 1944 political jousting.

The Republican nominee, who put in years of "racket-busting" as a district attorney, made his first platform speech of the campaign when he rolled into Springfield this morning and was greeted by Governor Dwight H. Green, of Illinois.

"He (Gov. Green) and I have been doing the same thing for fourteen years," Dewey declared. "Fourteen years ago he and I were chasing gangsters, I in New York and he in Chicago. And I may say we are both still at it to some extent."

Wants "Sound Economy"

At a news conference later, Dewey declined flatly to elaborate on his statement that he was "still fighting the racket" as a district attorney, made his first platform speech of the campaign when he rolled into Springfield this morning and was greeted by Governor Dwight H. Green, of Illinois.

Ewald Ruehl, Two Mannerheim Children Are Hurt In Plane Crash

By EDWIN SHANKE
STOCKHOLM, Aug. 1 (P)—Aged Marshal Baron Carl Gustav Mannerheim, commander-in-chief of Finland's armed forces, tonight accepted parliament's call to the presidency succeeding Risto Ryti and opening the way for formation of a "peace government."

Thus again as after World War I, the Finns turned to their number one soldier to save the country.

The Finnish Parliament met five times during the day in the face of the crisis resulting from the Russian advance to the Baltic which threatens to cut Finland off from her ally, Germany.

Ryti's resignation in effect cancels his pact with Germany in which he promised Finland would not make a separate peace, as the pact depended solely on Ryti's signature because parliament was not consulted.

Ryti, in his letter of resignation, dated Aug. 1, said civil and military powers ought to be concentrated in one person because of "the hard and dangerous conditions" in which Finland finds itself. Secondly, he said, his health had been affected.

Mannerheim took over the presidency after parliament had adopted a special decree legalizing his succession without an election, official announcements in Helsinki stated.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (P)—Sammy Angoff, former NBA lightweight king, gave Aaron Perry another ring lesson in scoring an 10 round decision over the 18-year old Washington negro before some 10,000 fans tonight.

Angoff weighed 143, a pound less than Perry.

Public's Apathy

Speaking of the hospitals in the Third Service Command, the general said, "In appreciation of what they have done, we give our battle casualties the best treatment the world knows of."

"The army's idea is that nothing is too good for the man who comes back—especially if he comes back in a hospital bed."

The army's placement system is working well General Hayes remarked, and it will find a position for a wounded man, even though he has lost an arm or a leg.

Much of the public apathy in the prosecution of the war, General Hayes declared, was due to the public's inability to grasp the enormity of war expenses.

Daughton Nominated

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 1 (P)—State Senator Ralph H. Daughton, backed by the Byrd state organization, today won the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Second congressional district in a close three-cornered race.

Patrick H. Drewry of Petersburg, held close to a 2 to 1 lead in the Fourth district over Lorenzo Lee Bean, the former mayor of South Hill, in the only other contest in today's Democratic primary.

Seven of the nine incumbent congressmen were unopposed and were declared the nominees without primary.

Cecil, who maintained a home in Flat Rock, N. C., held the Navy Cross and a Gold Star in lieu of a second Navy Cross for heroism in the Pacific.

He was the eleventh man of flag or general rank in the navy and marines to die in action in this war.

Daughton, who is the president of the Piedmont Baseball League, defeated former State Senator Vian L. Pace, who was trying a comeback after being unseated by the Byrd organization for re-election to the Senate, and Porter Hardy, Jr., Norfolk county farm leader. They were seeking the nomination for the seat now held by Rep. Windham R. Harris, who is not running.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 1 (P)—Sen. Bennett Champ Clark trailed Attorney General Roy McKittrick tonight in a primary race for the Democratic senatorial nomination that appeared so close it may take the absentee vote—which will be counted Friday—to decide the winner.

The lead changed hands twice before McKittrick established an edge of 3,000 votes with about an eighth of the state reported in unofficial returns.

Asked if he concurred in an opinion that Turkey would not enter the war until Allied victory was certain, he replied:

"I certainly do."

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Aug. 1 (P)—Mrs. Elizabeth M. Gilmer, known to newspaper readers as Dorothy Dix, was injured today when struck by a bus while crossing an Asheville street.

She was treated for cuts, bruises and shock at a hospital. Doctors said her condition was not serious and that she was expected to be discharged in the morning.

Reed Is Leading

TOPEKA, Kans., Aug. 1 (P)—Sen. Clyde M. Reed, Parsons Republican who has said his defeat would be hailed as "an outstanding victory for the GIO in 1944," held a 3 to 2 lead in his bid for renomination for a second term in early returns from today's primary.

Complete unofficial returns from 261 precincts out of 2,742 in the state gave Reed 9,246 votes against 5,239 for Carl E. Friend, Lawrence H. Dingle and former Lieutenant Governor, and 1,549 for Chauncey Dewey, Brewster candidate.

At the same time, east of the Vire river, British troops swept into the German heights stronghold of Le Bény-Bocage and pushed beyond it, joining with American forces driving against the key city of Vire, lying about five miles farther south.

The Germans launched three divisional counterattacks east of Vire, against Bradley's left flank, slowing up his advance temporarily and taking Tessy-Sur-Vire, seven miles northeast of Percy, but they were thrown back later and were reported retreating from Tessy.

Roosevelt Has Commanding Lead In Eight States of Deep South

Revolt Does Not Reach below Leadership Level, Gallup Poll Shows

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., August 1.—There is little evidence, as of today, to support the belief that the threatened anti-Roosevelt revolt of the deep South has reached below the leadership level.

There has been some popular defection from Roosevelt of course, and it is especially marked in those states which have shown strongest signs of revolt among the leaders, particularly in Mississippi where Roosevelt's strength runs twelve percentage points behind 1940.

Nevertheless, intensive interviewing by field reporters in scores of towns, cities, and farm areas in the deep southern states shows Roosevelt retaining an overwhelming lead among the rank and the civilian voters.

And, assuming that the electors in these states follow the vote of the rank and file, the ninety electoral votes of Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina, and Texas can be placed, as of today, in the "safe Democratic" column.

Interviewing in the present survey covers the period up to July 27, and does not therefore fully reflect the effects of the Democratic convention, which extended the "olive branch" to the South by nominating Senator Harry S. Truman, of Missouri, for vice president, instead of Henry A. Wallace, whom many Southern political leaders dislike.

Following is the box score in these states today in answer to the question: "If the presidential election were being held today, how would you vote—for Dewey or for Roosevelt?"

This table shows the Roosevelt percentage of the major party vote in the eight states.

In addition to the deep southern states, the Institute has also, during the past three weeks, reported poll-ical sentiment among civilian voters in these five states—New York, Illinois, Ohio, Michigan, and Indiana. Governor Dewey has an advantage in all five, as of the period when the surveys were made.

Field reporters are at the present time completing surveys among civilian voters in the other five Southern states, Kentucky, North Carolina, Tennessee, Oklahoma and Virginia, as well as in all other states of the Union. These will be reported in the future.

The Impact on the Home

By a Truman Clerkship

THE WORD NEPOTISM, which is good many do not understand, has bobbed up again in connection with the disclosure that the wife of the vice-president-elect, Senator Truman, is on the federal pay roll with the nice little stipend of $4,500 annually, which is chiefly earned not in Washington but at her home. Wherefore, for the benefit of those to whom the word falls strangely on the ear, a bit of explanation seems in order. It comes from nephew (Latin nepos). The dictionary defines it as "favoritism shown to nephews and other relatives; behest of patronage by reason of relationship rather than of merit."

The practice it represents is not new in Washington and in other places where it can be enjoyed. It obtains even in business circles, but the politicians seem to have an extra weakness for the practice. This may be a result of the larger opportunity for practicing it which they have. Some of the politicians utilize it in self defense—to get their poor relatives off their backs, to keep peace in the family—or just because they can't resist looking out for their kinsfolk. While merit is generally lacking in such appointments, in some of them there is real merit.

The disclosure about Mrs. Truman's job, however, is nothing rare or unusual in itself but the explanation of the manner in which his wife earns the stipend given by Senator Truman is likely to have a far-reaching effect in thousands of American households. The duties of Mrs. Truman, which are performed principally at home according to reports of her husband's office aids, are stated by the senator in a Washington interview to be in part as follows: "She is my chief adviser... and I never make any decision unless she is in on them. She also takes care of my personal mailing."

The impact of this upon American households is set forth by the New York Herald Tribune: "When the news of Mrs. Truman's tasks and pay checks reached the great American home, that state and scene of fireside chats and discussions, it says, 'one can imagine a prompt urge toward revolution by housewives who never before have realized they were performing important clerical duties for which considerable sums are obtainable in the Capitolian labor market.' Every 'chief adviser' in a home... and we all know what that adviser is... every one who is in on a husband's decisions and can't make a quick guess is needed here; every woman who would gladly take care of her husband's personal mail (the most interesting job imaginable, in some instances), will be likely to file a claim for $4,500 annually."

If that sort of thing is to apply to the wives of all the bureaucrats in addition to those of the elected representatives, the present public debt will shrivel into an inconsequential total. But, let the thought perish for the most part, there are thousands of wives who do this work, or would gladly do it, without recompense.

Why City Bosses
Wanted Truman

THERE IS NO NEWS, of course, in the fact that Sen. Harry S. Truman, President Roosevelt's running mate, was the choice of the Hagues, the Kellys and the Fynns. That Senator Truman was one of Tom Pendergast's most loyal supporters has been mentioned, but a glance at the record will disclose how really loyal he was to that discredited and imprisoned political manipulator.

In January, 1938, President Roosevelt renominated Maurice M. Milligan as United States attorney for the Western district of Missouri. Mr. Milligan had already sent members of the Pendergast machine to jail and was then gunning for Pendergast himself.

Senator Truman immediately announced he would oppose the appointment and on the floor of the Senate on February 15, 1938, he made a bitter and violent attack on Mr. Milligan. How much the Senate thought of this might be ascertained from the fact that the appointment was confirmed immediately after the close of Mr. Truman's denunciation.

The arch-Democratic New York Times commented editorially that "Tom Pendergast may have lost the cemetery vote, but he can not lose Harry Truman." Many Missouri papers attacked Truman, and the St. Louis Times-Star can a cartoon showing Mr. Truman trying in vain to hose out a fire on a sinking ship flying the pirate flag and labeled "Pendergastism."

No wonder the big city machine politicians wanted Harry Truman so badly.

A Dewey Pledge
That Appeals

ONE of the most appealing things about the candidacy of Governor Dewey is his pledge that, if he is chosen president, the government at Washington "will again have a cabinet of the ablest men and women to be found in America." Mr. Dewey has also indicated that the persons selected for these cabinet positions will be permitted to function therein without undue interference from the executive. Full responsibility will be vested in them and they will be of sufficient ability and trustworthiness to carry out those responsibilities.

What this means is that the government at Washington will be restored to a government under law. The present cabinet members, with an exception or two, are mere figureheads, some of them so much so that the average person cannot recall who they are. They are dominated and controlled and swerved by the White House. There are the pitiful specimens of Madame Perkins, for example, who has about as little to do with the conduct of the department of Labor as Squire Higgins out at Bennington Cross Roads. All labor policies—perhaps it were better to call them labor expedientes—are handled by the president. In short, it is a one-man government, and Governor Dewey proposes to do away with that sort of thing and replace it with capable men in key positions who will operate affairs under law instead of through the whim and opportunism of a head boss, all working harmoniously under established policies looking to the national welfare rather than to individual political fortunes and perpetuation in office. Goodness knows the country needs such a change.

Fish Ladders, Dams and Sich

EVERY TIME a dam was built in the United States in the last generation complaint was made that proper arrangements were not included in engineering for fish to move upstream. The theory was that fish could not swim freely upstream because fish ladders were improperly built. But fish ladders were more frequently improperly built than improperly placed.

Comes a new era. Dams are to be built in increasing numbers and on more and more streams. Don't ask why. Such things are decided by fate and people on the government pay roll. The latter at least have decreed that after the war dams are to be built as never before.

But it is doubtful whether a solitary fish ladder will figure in this dam-building saturnalia.

A division of the Fish and Wildlife service has been established to give particular attention to the establishment of fish hatcheries. Instead of building a contraption in each dam and hoping the fish will worm their way up over the ladder, the Interior department will specialize in growing fish and planting them in streams.

This will not only provide fish in abundance between dams, but it relieves fish of the arduous task of ladder-climbing. What is to prevent the fish from floating over dam after dam until they all arrive at the mouth of a stream?

That is a question to be presented to one of the boys on the pay roll, who will no doubt have a ready answer. Few of the boys on the pay roll can be accused of lacking mental agility.

Yes, the GIs Know Their French, Too

AMERICAN GIs in France are again giving the French language a severe beating, just as the doughboys did after the 1917 AEF landed there.

Baixey, for instance, says Al Newman, Newsweek's war correspondent, has become Bayroo. Sainte-Sauveur is Saint Savior or Saint Soave. Valognes is Villunes and Montebourg is Montburg or even Montboing. If the boy is from Brooklyn, Ste. Marie Elsie has been tortured into Saint Mary Eagle Eyes or sometimes Saint Mary's. Exercise Isgny is I Seen Ya and sad puns are made along this line. Careantan, Cherbourg and St. Lo have escaped almost unscathed but Le Picard is either Less Pious or simply Le Pew. Bricquebec is inevitably Brickba.

When the armies advance farther, somebody is going to break his jaw on the Torgny sur Vire-Dampierre-St. Jean des Essarts road for sure.

But leave it to the ingenuous GIs. If our soldiers could turn such a name as Ypres into Wipers, they can be depended on to handle almost any strange title.

The postwar cowboy, we read, will ride hard in a town. The movie ranger rider will have a tough time trying to look romantic crooning a ballad while changing tires.

Forest owners interested in conservation have found that trees respond well when protected and cultivated—and the same is true of women.

In certain parts of Mexico, the Indians, we read, build their houses in the tree tops. Getting prepared, no doubt, for a helicopter civilization.

Are You a Mess?

By MARSHALL MASLIN

My office is generally conceded to be the sloppiest and most disorderly in our building. Old files, books, scraps of paper, clippings, letters, pamphlets, pictures and other valuable properties are piled perilously high on desks and chairs. They slop over and fall to the floor; I pick them up and throw them together again. I rarely throw anything away: I've told more than one janitor never to clean out my office and if he sees anything on the floor that looks as though it might be useful, not to sweep that out either.

I've been abused by friends for the looks of my office. And I've defended its sloppiness. I've told them I know where everything is—and that everything is useful—and that I like it this way because it would be much more trouble to keep things neat than to throw them in a pile and let them lie there until I need them. I think I've even been proud of this disorder.

I've had my triumphs and they've been sweet—but lately I've had my doubts, too, about this office of mine. I've looked for things and haven't been able to find them. I know they're under a pile somewhere but I don't know which pile. My instinct would lead me directly to the needle in the haystack, but somehow it doesn't... Perhaps my instinct is discouraged. I don't know, perhaps that system isn't working as well as I thought it would. I should do something about it. Should clean house ruthlessly to throw away unnecessary things, pile things neatly, and start all over again... Perhaps I'll clean up my office, my mind will clean up, too; at least, I'll make a better impression on visitors... Perhaps.

Do you have such thoughts? Do you ever dream of cleaning up and starting again? Do you wonder if you are a "mess" or are you always perfect?... If you aren't, I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll clean up MY office if you do something, too. I'll trade you unsight-unseen, and we'll both be Public Improvements.

Don't refuse, I mean some sort of excuse, some incentive, for cleaning up my mess in an office and starting over again.

Dewey Strategy, Aimed at Twenty-Six States, Is Called a Novel Joint Venture

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Governor Dewey is going about his campaign in a novel way.

His tactics seem to be to keep quiet and organize before he lets go. He has gone about it with greater pains than any candidate in my time. Apparently, he has spent every minute since his nomination at the task.

Mr. Roosevelt's campaign has been indirect and, on the surface, wholly involved with war and peace developments. His role is commander-in-chief. When the Democratic convention was following directions, he was inspecting an aviation plant on the West coast.

It is impossible to contend war events, which he is leading, have no campaign effect, because they will be a controlling factor in whether he wins or loses.

Returning to Albany, he started receiving state delegations of congressmen (without their state chairmen). He has heard Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut separately so far.

Those who attended these meetings said they were like league meetings. Dewey did not make a speech, but simply devoted the meeting to understanding and organization. His friends always gave him credit for exceptional skill in organization.

On his trip west, he called in the Pennsylvania state delegation at Pittsburgh, the Illinois delegation at Springfield and is getting the twenty-six Republican governors into his organizational ring with his planned two-day meeting at St. Louis. After that, the Missouri delegation was brought in.

Concentration Denied

Obviously, Dewey's game is to concentrate through his organization upon those twenty-six states which will give him the election hands down, if he can get them.

During all this time, the usual campaign comments that daily emanate from a candidate have been avoided. When he went west, he had not even appointed a publicity manager, the job being temporarily left to Harold Keller, deputy commissioner of commerce on leave from his state job, who also handled Dewey publicity at the convention.

Thus, while neither candidate has spoken much for himself, their actions have bespoken the personal contrast which is to be the basis of the campaign that will develop.

Returns Indicate
Soldiers Vote As
Other Folk Do

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

The "soldier vote" as an election factor seems to be a good deal of a myth. This is indicated by the re-nomination of Senator Nye, of North Dakota. When his primary ended last month, many absentee soldier votes had not been counted. Now they have been, and they show that the men in uniform divide about as other folks do. The soldiers gave Nye a small majority, as the others had.

As Nye was a vigorous America First speaker and his leading opponent was a former national commander of the American Legion, his re-nomination seems to show that the soldiers are not going to punish men in public life who tried to avoid the necessity of conscripting them to fight.

Bad Medicine

A recent poll indicates that a C.I.O. endorsement is bad medicine for the endorse. Now comes Philip Pearl, publicity director of the American Federation of Labor, with the remark that most candidates for office will find C.I.O. support a "kiss of death." This is not true in some cases. In the big cities, but elsewhere the folks don't like the Russian-born Sidney Hillman telling them now,

Morning Motto

See first that the design is wise and just; that ascertained, pursue it resolutely; do not for one moment let forego the purpose that you resolved to effect.—SHAKESPEARE and even before September, 1939, when World War II began. It is evident that Mr. Roosevelt is willing to stand on his record as commander-in-chief during the nearly twelve years that he has been in the presidency.

Many Questions Opened

If this is the case, it opens up many matters, including the preparedness of the United States with respect to the army, navy and the air forces. There is, for instance, the question of fortifying Guam. Recently Senator Walsh, chairman of the Naval Affairs committee of the United States Senate, issued a public document giving the history of that particular controversy and he points out that at that time the Navy department actually recommended the fortification of Guam. Therefore, the fortification item was never voted upon by either house of Congress. What was voted upon was a small appropriation of $5,000,000 for harbor dredging and this item was stricken out by a vote of 205 to 168 on the floor of the House.

When the matter was up before the Senate, there was a belief that the navy really wanted to fortify Guam, but apparently nobody in the executive branch of the government was willing to say so flatly.

Harbor Improvements Only

Admiral Leahy, who was chief of naval operations at the time, was asked at the hearings in 1939 what it would cost to fortify Guam. He replied, "as a rough estimate, something in the neighborhood of $200,000,000. Such a proposition is not in the mind of the Navy department at the present time. The only improvements contemplated are $5,000,000 for harbor improvements."

The Walsh document also gives a brief history of naval legislation from 1922 to 1944 and points out during those years in respect to building up the navy to its present strength. It is apparent that the real wishes of the Navy department were not met or that the various naval officers who testified were not permitted to ask for what they wanted. Adm. Stark, who was chief of naval operations in 1940, was by next spring I shall have been commander-in-chief of the armed forces for twelve years three times elected by the people of this country under the American constitutional system."

It seems odd that Mr. Roosevelt would employ the term commander-in-chief to refer to the period before America's entry into the war on December 7, 1941.

On the other hand, China must view the Wallace turn-down with grave misgivings. In her eighth year of war China is nearly at the end of her rope. Wallace, a friend of China, was sent to boost her morale. He no sooner returns to America than China learns that the New Deal swapped horses in the middle of the Wallace.

Cruel Job

Right or wrong, Henry Wallace is one of the few men left in Washington with genuine and sincere convictions on any subject except political power. He really believes in "The Century of the Common Man" for every human being on the globe. If he had been more practical, he would have left a deep impress on his time. His turn-down was one of the cruellest jobs ever pulled off by remote control. Henry's reaction publicly, however, was, "Though thou slay me yet will I love thee."

With three generations of Iowa farming in his blood and a background as Secretary of Agriculture for eight years, Mr. Wallace wound up as the candidate of the "city of the future."

Promotion to first lieutenant was won in the Italian theater by Harold W. Gerard, a veteran of fifty combat missions. It was announced from the Fifteenth air force headquarters there. Lt. Gerard is a bombardier on a B-24 Liberator bomber. He is a son of Mrs. Nettie J. Gerard, 139 Humbird street and went overseas last December.

He attended Pennsylvania Avenue high school graduating in 1933. He served six years in the army prior to the war and graduated as bombardier shortly after Pearl Harbor.

She explained that with the drafting of fathers this type of assistance has become very necessary, for as a rule the first allotment check is not received by the family until about three months from the time the soldier leaves for active duty. Textile Union

A beauty contest will be one of the chief features of the Labor day celebration at Constitution Park September 4, sponsored by Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, it was announced recently.

The winner of the contest will be crowned "Miss Celanese Local 1874," according to John Neal and Playford Aldridge, sport chairmen of the local's special activities committee. The contest is open only to members of the textile union, which includes the Potomac Worsted Spinning Mill of Keyser, W. Va., and the General Textile Mill at Lonaconing.

Various departments at the Celanese plant have already sponsored their favorite contestants, who will be certain of winning at least the special prize of the sponsoring department. Both the Celanese corporation and Nestor "Ted" Licot, manager of the Constitution pool, will donate prizes to the winner, it was announced. The closing date for application is August 26.

Mayor Thomas S. Post and the city council have accepted invitations to attend the all-day program, which will begin with children's contests and a soft ball game between the local and the Frostburg Eagles.

The guest speakers will include George Baldanzo, executive vice president of the union; Miss Elizabeth Nord and James Dundon, representing the national office, and Thomas Connors, chairman of the Maryland CIO Political Action Committee. Ex-Congressman David T. Lewis will also attend the celebration.

OPA Prices on Used

Since all outstanding certificates for heavy bus and truck tires will be issued by the Office of Price Administration so that needs of operators may be re-examined, in the case of sharply reduced allocations in new priority ratings, the local price and ration board here has notified.

The order applies to all but relatively few certificates issued since July 15. All other operators will be required to file new applications in local ration boards. After preliminary screenings, the forms will go to OPA's newly-created board in order to obtain a gasoline allotment.

Tire Dealers Must Post Ceiling Prices

All tire dealers must post OPA retail ceiling prices for passenger car tires and tubes, as well as their recapping and repairing, where all customers can read them. OPA officials said yesterday.

Customers are reminded to ask for a sales slip or receipt for each retail sale and each recapping or repairing job. Dealers are required to keep a record of all such sales and repair work, including the price paid and received, the quantity, type and size of each brand of tire, and rubber.

No violations of the price ceiling have been reported, and each of the used cars sold has been clearly tagged with the proper ceiling price, officials said. A transfer certificate must be filed with the board in order to obtain a gasoline allotment.

Whiskey Still Held
By Western Maryland

Complications resulting from state laws and rulings of the Securities and Exchange Commission are still holding a carload lot of whiskey at the Western Maryland railroad yards.

The group of owners of the whiskey have been unable to unravel the red tape sufficiently to at least remove the whiskey from freight cars with the result that demurrage has been piling up for nearly two weeks. An effort is being made to get the cases out of cars and let the railroad retain possession to halt the demurrage charges.

The 824 cases of whiskey were bought by local stockholders of the American Distilling Company.

NEW YORK, August 1 (P)—Somerset Maugham's "The Letter," put out both on the stage and in the movies, goes on the air Wednesday night as an hour's production in another of the Arthur Hopkins Presents plays on NBC at 11:30 p. m.

Geraldine Fitzgerald is to play the lead that Katharine Cornell had on the stage and Bette Davis in the movies. Ed Herlihy does the announcing.

Co-operating with Phil Harris as he runs the Kay Kyser music quiz in the absence of the Old Professor, will be Don Leslie, tenor, and the King Sisters' vocalists. The hour's show starts on NBC at 10.

Baritone William Hargrave is to be a guest of the Lyn Murray chorus and orchestra on CBS at 8:15, while on the same network at 9:30 will come Duke Ellington as the announced guest of the Mildred Bailey program.

Great Moments in Music of CBS at 10 is to put on excerpts from Franz Lehár's "Merry Widow" using the voices of Jan Peerce, Robert Weede and Jean Tetney as George Sebastian's orchestra plays. Yesterday's arrivals at the local half mile oval included Don Bingo II, owned by C. A. Cranford. This racer was originally purchased by Bing Crosby along with two other thoroughbreds for $30,000.

Approximately thirty riders, including nine apprentices, will be available for the eight races, White said.

Clarence Lippel and Lt. Harry Berkowitz Also Speak at Meeting

The good results at the Kelly plant, where bonds totaling $132,425 were sold, was the result of complete co-operation of all employees officials said.

A bond selling booth was set up at the entrance to the parking lot and was staffed by members of the office force. Bonds totaling $50,000 were sold for cash and the balance subscribed through the payroll deduction plan.

County Total High

The total sale of all types of Fifth War Loan securities in Allegany county was $6,658,562.25 and represented 222 per cent on the quota of $3,000,000. Naughton said.

Ruth, state manager, at Baltimore, that state sales up to yesterday totaled $415,200,000. The sale of "E" bonds in the state was seventy-two per cent of the quota.

Cpl. A. L. Street Killed in Action in Italy July 12

Was Wounded Earlier in Year; Returned to Combat May 1

Cpl. Arnold L. Street, 22, 1614 Bedford street, was killed in Italy, July 12, according to yesterday's war casualty list. Earlier in the year he was reported wounded in action and was hospitalized for two months, returning to combat duty May 1.

Cpl. Street was the husband of Mrs. Marian McLuckie Street, 1614 Bedford street, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude A. Street, Bedford Valley, Pa. Prior to entering the service in October, 1942, he was employed by the Potomac Edison Company at its Potomac River plant.

Besides his wife and parents, Cpl. Street is survived by two sisters, the Misses Oleda and Norma Street, and one brother, Gentry Street, all at home.

Cpt. Richard Spencer, Keyser, W. Va., was killed in France, June 16, according to the casualty report. He was the son of Isaac Spencer, Reeses Mill, near Keyser. Two brothers, Melvin Spencer, also serving with the army in France, and Ray Spencer, at home, also survive.

Another former Potomac Edison Company employee, Tech. Sgt. Eugene Shinnick, has been missing in action since July 7 over Hungary. He is a nephew of Miss Pearl A. Eader, Broadbent Heights, a retired Allegany high school teacher. Sgt. Shinnick attended State Teachers College, Frostburg, before entering the service.

Twenty-two young men from the Cumberland area left yesterday for Baltimore, where they will begin active duty with the navy, according to Milton C. Murphy, specialist first class in charge of navy recruiting here. They are:

Crites, 144 Frederick street; William Conrad, 54 McCullough street, Frostburg; Edward J. Jackson, 19 Washington street, Frostburg; Charles Clay Brooks, Ridgeley, W. Va.; Jack J. Flanagan, Keyser; Joseph H. Helmstetter, 412 Franklin street; Patrick J. Fahey, Jr., 601 Shriner Avenue; Andrew M. Lewis, Jr., 215 Offutt street; Arthur E. Beaulieu, Uniontown, Pa., and Coburn E. Mangen, Jr., 407 Arch street.

Steady Rain Needed To Prevent Heavy Loss of Crops

A steady, all night rain is badly needed to prevent a heavy loss of farm crops and victory gardens in this section, Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent, said yesterday.

Crops are parched now from lack of rain and continued heat wave, he said, especially on hillsides and exposed fields. Corn and other crops in bottom lands are getting along, he added, because of moisture accumulated in these low points.

Although there was a hard downpour of rain for a short time yesterday afternoon, McHenry said it wasn't nearly enough to relieve the last night's meeting.

VFW Will Aid Guards At Prisoners' Camp

A committee will be appointed by Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, to devise ways and means of obtaining furniture and other equipment for a club room for guards at the German prisoners of war camp at Green Ridge.

Action was taken by the post last evening following an appeal by Rev. William von Spreckelsen, who stated that the American soldier guards have only the bare necessities of life at the camp east of this city.

The post announced that seven delegates will attend the national encampment of the VFW, August 23 to 24 in Chicago.

Sgt. Kraft, with the Twenty-ninth division had taken part in the invasion on "D-Day" and been in continual battle until June 17. He is a graduate of Allegany high school and prior to entering the service was in the brick contracting business with his father.
